Project Title: Black Panther – The World of Wakanda

I would like to build a responsive, six-page website exploring Black Panther (2018). The site will introduce the film before guiding visitors through its story and characters, the design of Wakanda, and its cultural impact. Navigation across the top will connect the pages, with a collapsible menu on smaller screens. Large imagery, bold typography, and a black, purple, and gold color palette will establish the visual direction.

1. Home/Introduction
    a. Introduce the film and the purpose of the website. Include a brief overview, key film information, a prominent image, and previews linking to the other pages.

2. Story & Characters
    a. Provide a concise plot summary, followed by introductions to the main characters and the actors who portray them. Highlight the central conflict between T'Challa and Killmonger, with a spoiler notice before the plot details.

3. Designing Wakanda
    a. Explore how the filmmakers created Wakanda through architecture, costumes, technology, and landscape. Organize the page around production design and costume design, using images and captions to explain their African cultural influences and Afrofuturist approach.

4. Behind the Film
    a. Introduce the creative team and summarize the film's development and production. Include sections on directing and writing, filming and visual effects, and the score and soundtrack.

5. Cultural Impact & Reception
    a. Explore the film's significance for Black representation in superhero cinema. Follow this with an overview of critical reception, box-office performance, and major awards.

6. Sources & Credits
    a. List the original Wikipedia article, any additional references, and credits for photographs and other visual assets used throughout the site.
